Lawyer leads drive against judge

Morris Chapman

A committee bankrolled by a prominent Granite City attorney is trying to unseat Circuit Judge George Moran Jr., claiming the judge is incompetent and has given the court a black eye.

Granite City attorney Morris Chapman has proposed $25,000 into Citizens for a Moral Judiciary, a committee formed to oppose Moran's retention campaign, county records show.

"He's been on the bench for over a decade and has never received a passing grade from the Illinois Bar Association. We just feel he is not competent to sit at that position," said Glen Beckmann, an Edwardsville consultant hired by Citizens for a Moral Judiciary to run the anti-Moran campaign.

Chapman, however, said he doesn't believe his state bar ranking is the real issue and that he suspects Chapman wants him replaced with a judge who will give personal-injury attorneys more favorable awards.

Chapman is a prominent personal-injury attorney and frequent major contributor to Democratic candidates.

"Chapman always requests a change of venue when he ends up in my courtroom, and that's because he knows the fix isn't in," Moran said Monday.

Chapman did not return phone calls from reporters seeking comment.

County will decide Nov. 8 whether to retain Moran as a 3rd Circuit Court judge for Madison and Bond counties. He needs a 60 percent favorable vote to stay on the bench. (See MORAN, Page 11A)

Police lose evidence

Powder missing in case against Venice police chief's nephew

By Bob State
Staff writer

The Venice Police Department lost evidence in a federal drug possession case against the chief's nephew.

But U.S. District Judge William Steihel ruled that the possibility of any foul play by the defendant, denied a motion by the defendant to dismiss the case, and ruled that the defendant's jury trial would go ahead as scheduled.

Josiah Compton III, 25, son of Police Chief James Bennett, is charged with federal counts of possession of cocaine base, possession with intent to distribute cocaine, use of a drug trafficking device and possession and shooting of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Police allege Compton possessed 45.8 grams of cocaine — more than an ounce and a half — and a gun when he raided his stepson's Venice apartment March 3 of this year.

Compton, who at the time of the raid was being supervised electronically by the Madison County Probation Department for a prior felony drug conviction, alleges that the seized powder was actually a hair product used by his stepson.

"I wanted to be there for the search because Venice police is known to set up people," Compton told Steihel.

Venice Police Sgt. Theo Adams, the department's evidence officer, testified Thursday that the alleged cocaine seized in the raid was "lost" sometime between April 13, when he picked it up from the Illinois State Police Crime Lab in Fairview Heights, where it had been analyzed, and the start of the trial Tuesday.

Adams testified that, as evidence officer, he is responsible to see that the powder was properly placed in an evidence safe at the department.

Although other evidence in the case — a gun and two rocks of alleged crack cocaine purchased from a confidential informant prior to the March 3 raid — was located in the department's evidence safe, Adams testified Tuesday that he discovered the powder missing from the safe Sept. 13.

Bennett testified that the safe operates on both key and combination locks and that he and Adams have the only keys to the safe.

"The only thing I can discern from the (see EVIDENCE, Page 11A)

Venice officer suspended?

A Venice police officer was reportedly suspended this week by Venice Police Chief James Bennett after refusing to release the officer's name or any details of the situation.

When asked about the suspension, Bennett said, "I really don't want to talk about that. We've had officers suspended around here all year."

Bennett continued, "If any of my officers give you (The Granite City Press-Record-Journal) any information about it, I want to know about it. They might be suspended too."

Contractor calls rail berm necessary

public hearing process on a proposed new railroad crossing on Madison Avenue and to obtain financing for the project through taxpayer dollars.

The project to which Peters referred is a Tri-City Rail Project. The project includes the construction of a railroad loop and switching yard.

The loop would handle an additional 15,000 to 20,000 rail cars a year carrying grain in and out of the port as part of the relocation of ADM from the Alton riverfront, Peters said.

Under an agreement between the port and Norfolk and Southern, the port will build the switch yard utilizing a low-interest $2 million loan from the Illinois Department of Transportation, the railroad company and the port district.

At present time, Norfolk and Southern will own the property, Peters said.

"Don't you wish banks and private industry could get their hands on that type of money and at the end of 20 years it's yours?" Peters asked.

This (project) is a subterfuge of a rail yard," Peters said. "The railroad can well afford an earthen berm and tree planting and so can the port district. And if they can't afford it, maybe ADM can," Peters said.

Peters is co-trustee of a land trust owning property near the rail yard.

The city is currently considering amending its zoning ordinance to require construction of four- to five-feet high earthen berms and plantation of non-deciduous trees around all new rail construction.

"It makes good land management sense to establish an environmental and visual buffer between a railyard and the development corridor along Madison Avenue and Pontoon Road," Peters said.

Several representatives of industry objected to the proposed amendment last week at a special meeting of the city's planning commission.

Shooting ruled a homicide

A Venice businessman's fatal shooting of a man allegedly trying to rob him was ruled a homicide Wednesday.

The court made the ruling in a hearing on the shooting, which occurred Aug. 30 outside John's Drive-In restaurant, 417 Broadway in Venice.

Defendant Anthony Dezan killed 18-year-old Marcus R. Thomas of Venice and wounded another teenager after the two and a third youth allegedly tried to rob him as he was leaving the restaurant.

State Attorney Bill Haine has said Dezan will not be prosecuted. He said the shooting was justified by the circumstances.

Authorities said the ruling Wednesday does not mean that Dezan will now be charged. It merely classifies the shooting as "the intentional taking of a

Trial begins in mass murder

Jury selection began Monday in a trial involving the execution-style slaying of five men in an Eagle Point apartment.

On trial are four counts of first-degree murder.

Coleman and Williams are accused of killing four men inside a mobile home Nov. 17. Williams is also accused of fatally shooting a neighbor who may have witnessed the shootings.

Prosecutors had speculated the shooting was the result of a drug transaction that went bad.

Coleman, who is being represented by Thomas Hildebrand of Alton, faces up to life prison if convicted.

Williams, who is being defended by special appointed public defender Stephanie Robbins, faces the death penalty if convicted.

Robbins waived the jury's decision on the death penalty and requested it be

Candidate upset by 'late' mailing

Republican county clerk candidate Bob Ramsey is criticizing incoming Democrat Debbie Saitch for mailing voter registration cards after Labor Day.

Ramsey lashed out at Saitch in a press conference Thursday in front of the Madison County Administration Building, claiming the recent mailing of 141,000 cards was too close to the Nov. 8 election.

Ramsey said it creates a needless burden for Saitch's staff, who should be busy preparing for the election.

Saitch denied the accusation, saying certain members of her staff work exclusively on voter registration.

Buffer plan stirs up fight

Some industrial leaders in Granite City are steaming about a proposal to require buffer areas around all new railroad construction.

While the city's zoning ordinance lists a number of industrial uses that require buffers, railroad construction is not among them.

City officials say the proposed requirements would protect nearby residences and commercial developments from the nuisances associated with additional railroad traffic. But industrial leaders say the measure will have the effect of stifling industrial growth and development.

City offering mortgage incentives

Granite City is offering a financial incentive for those seeking to buy a home within the city limits.

The council recently approved a program to offer mortgage credit certificates (MCCs) that provide housing assistance in the form of income tax credits for buyers of homes within the city limits who have not owned a home within the past three years.

"A MCC will save the typical homeowner more than $1,000 a year in federal income taxes," said Mayor Ron Schip.

To qualify for the program, buyers must not have owned a home in the past three years and must meet family income requirements.

Home repair fraud alleged

Attorney General Roland Burris filed suit Thursday against a woman who allegedly bilked at least a dozen Madison County residents out of thousands of dollars by performing substandard blacktopping work on their driveways.

Richard D. Pearce, 23, who once resided in a mobile home park on East Chain of Rocks Road near Granite City but was described as a transient by Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey, is named in the complaint alleging he violated the Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Practices Act.

Pearce allegedly charged victims between $100 and $350 to perform driveway repair work prosecutors say was substandard.

Madison bans truck parking

Semi-tractors and similar trucks can no longer legally park on the streets or in the alleys in Madison.

Last week, the Madison City Council adopted an ordinance prohibiting semi-tractors, semi-tractor trailers, and trucks (except pickup trucks) from parking on city streets or in alleys unless drivers are making deliveries or pickups.

Such vehicles, if found illegally parked and unattended, may be towed at the owner's expense and the owner may be fined between $50 and $500.

High school problems displayed

School officials are eager to let the public know the exact condition of Granite City High School.

"We have a slide show to present. But we feel like, if we can get people in the building where they can actually see these problems, it is much more effective," Superintendent Steve Bales said last week.

Among the problems at the high school building are faulty plumbing, deteriorating roofs, leaking ceilings, lockers that are so badly damaged they cannot open and close, restrooms that are not handicapped accessible, original wiring installed before 1929 and 1927, dangerous sidewalks, obsolete climate controls systems and rotting window frames.

A bond issue on the Nov. 8 ballot will ask voters to authorize continuation of an existing tax levy to finance a $12 million renovation project.

Inmates don't like jail in Belleville

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The first St. Louis inmates transported to the St. Clair County could have made the road a little harder for those to follow, officials said.

All nine of the inmates who made the initial trip to the St. Clair County Jail Sept. 1 requested they be taken back to St. Louis after only a few days in St. Clair County Jail, said Phillip McLaurin, St. Louis commissioner of corrections, the St. Louis Corrections Bureau.

"They go here and say they don't like something and they have to take them back," explained St. Clair County Sheriff Mearl Justus.

"The first ones were back in two days."

McLaurin said St. Louis officials found the jail "extremely nice" but inmates were used to going to the commissary twice a week and having contact visits with friends and relatives.

St. Clair County does not allow contact visits and inmates can only visit the commissary once a week.

In addition, many inmates complained that their families didn't have transportation to visit them in the nearly 20-mile trip from St. Louis, McLaurin said.

"There are also some rumors that if an inmate goes over there (St. Clair County), they will no longer be considered for a recognition bond," he said. "That's not true, but you know how fast the word spreads."

Although St. Clair County has a no-smoking facility, McLaurin said that did not seem to be a major factor in why so many inmates initially returned to St. Louis.

St. Louis officials are hoping the District Judge Clyde Cahill will modify his court order so the moves will no longer be voluntary.

"It's just been creating too much turmoil (to return them)," McLaurin said. "We allowed them to come back because we honored what we told them."

The corrections department has tried to make the journey easier for inmates' families by telling them to take Greyhound and Buses, bus run and the price of a round trip.

"These guys are around 500 of their peers when they're here too," McLaurin said. "They only have each other when they're in St. Clair County. That doesn't enhance them wanting to stay over there either."

Man reports robbery in Madison

A Granite City man reported a armed robbery involving crack cocaine in Madison Monday afternoon.

According to Madison police reports, Roger Tipton, 28, of Granite City reported that while driving around Madison looking for drugs, he was pulled over by a black male wearing a dark jacket with a hood at the corner of Second and Washington Streets.

Tipton said that he stopped the 1986 Ford Mustang LX he was driving, which belongs to his girlfriend, Amy, 20.

Now, he said a 30- to 35-year-old white male with balding hair, a full beard and mustache, about five feet six inches tall, and of medium build, got out of the passenger side window and asked Tipton what he wanted.

Tipton said he replied, "Three for 45." Police said the response meant three rocks of crack cocaine for $45.

Tipton said that a white female in her late twenties with long blonde hair, about five feet seven inches tall, and wearing a white shirt and shorts, then approached the driver's side door and put a steak knife to the side of Tipton's neck.

He asked that the woman then asked him to drive him away and he got out of the vehicle. Tipton said he asked what was going on.

He said the white man then took the keys out of the car and gave them to the black male in exchange for some unknown item, which the black man handed to the white man.

According to Tipton, he was then escorted into a residence believed to be in the 1600 block of Seventh Street by the woman and the white man, who allegedly knew each other.

Once inside, Tipton said the man and woman took $40 from him and told him to stay there, which he did until he saw that the vehicle he was driving was gone when he came to report the robbery.

Tipton denied the statement.

The reporting officer questioned whether Tipton had traded the car for drugs, which Tipton also denied.

Ferris later recovered her car "somewhere between Seventh and Third Streets" from two men, according to police reports.

Board members terminate Darr from his attorney, Lucco of Edwardsville.

Darr's attorney, Lucco of Edwardsville, sent a letter to the day morning claiming Darr is a self-styled attorney and is currently seeking the problem.

Lucco suggested that Darr be given a chance to rehabilitation center and that a date of employment should be delayed until then.

Board members voted to accept Darr's resignation.

"I think it's

County board fires Darr despite last-minute plea

By Scott Wuerz
Staff writer

Despite a last-ditch effort to save his job, Lamont Darr was fired by the Madison County Board at its meeting Wednesday.

Darr, 53, had served as coordinator of the county's Emergency Management Agency since September 1992.

He lost his job because of an accident he had in a county truck two years earlier this year.

Board members voted 10-5 to terminate Darr's contract after his attorney pleading for another chance.

Darr's attorney, J. William Lucco of Alton, submitted a letter to the board Wednesday morning claiming that Darr is suffering from alcoholism and is currently seeking help to treat the problem.

Lucco suggested in the letter that Darr be granted a leave of absence from his position until rehabilitation could be completed, and that a decision about his employment status should be delayed until that time.

Board member Rudy Papa of Bethalto argued in favor of giving Darr a chance to receive treatment.

"I think it's important we give (Darr) this time, at least to be sure he gets due process before we make a decision," Papa said.

Papa suggested that an amendment be made to the resolution to terminate Darr that would postpone the vote until his rehabilitation was complete.

Board members rejected the amendment 10-7, however, and began proceedings to fire Darr immediately.

"I recognize the position of each and every one of you," Hargan said. "I would like to oppose [Darr's] termination. There is no one who hated to do what we had to do more than I."

The five county board members who voted to fire Darr were Papa, Bill Little of Alton, Herbert Milton Jr. of Granite City, Don Reen of Pontoon Beach and Durrell Riley of Alton.

Darr's fall accident apparently sealed Tuesday when the county board's Executive Committee voted 10-5 to fire Darr for crashing a county-owned van on June 31 when he was driving an alcohol-limited level of .22 percent — more than twice the legal limit.

"I have no comment at this time," Darr said as he and his wife left the committee meeting Tuesday.

Darr, who was hospitalized with serious injuries after wrecking the county van on Homer Adams Parkway, has been suspended from work without pay since a grand jury indicted him last month on drunken driving charges.

Hospital records obtained by the Alton Telegraph showed Darr's blood-alcohol level was .22 percent. State law classifies anyone with a blood-alcohol level of at least .10 as being intoxicated.

The accident was Darr's second involving a county-owned vehicle in less than a year.

In June 1993, Darr rammed a county-owned car into a car owned by his wife, Linda, in Bethalto. Prosecutors later dropped drunken driving charges against him, but the driver of the car he hit has filed suit against him and the corporation he allegedly served Darr before the accident.

On Tuesday, board members indicated that Darr and Lucco said Darr would be given a guarantee if he allowed him to keep his job. The guarantee was made during closed session, committee members said.

But despite the support, Darr received from several of the board's most respected members, the committee voted to recommend he be terminated.

Expert: Noise already a problem

An expert says that sound surveys taken near the site of a proposed railroad expansion in the north part of the city revealed noise levels that exceeded U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regulations and U.S. Department of Labor safety standards.

The proposed railroad expansion is expected to result in increased rail traffic and noise.

Scott Wilson, an environmental hygienist for Burlington Environmental Inc., told the Granite City Council Tuesday night that he conducted sound level surveys Dec. 29, 1993, at the intersection of Highway 3 and West Pontoon Road along the railroad track that runs parallel to Missouri Avenue, and at the railroad track and street crossing near Missouri Avenue's intersection with West Pontoon Road.

Wilson said he measured sound levels at a distance of 100 feet from locomotives that appeared to be moving at speeds of less than 5 mph at the intersection of track coming out of the A.O. Smith Yard-Saint Louis Terminal.

While federal law prohibits excessive sound levels, excess sound levels (dBA) "when moving at any time or under any condition of grade, load, acceleration or deceleration," Wilson said that Northern and Southern railroads generated sound level readings of 88 dBA while moving, 67 dBA at idle, and in excess of 100 dBA during coupling and uncoupling of the ballast and air breakers.

The U.S. Department of Labor suggests ear protection for sound levels of 90 dBA or more, Wilson said.

"There should be little doubt that the proposed new rail yard facility will generate sound levels at the receiving property in excess of EPA regulations," Wilson said.

He said that prolonged exposure to excessive noise levels can be annoying, interfere with communication and increase stress. He also said that prolonged exposure can result in hearing loss.

The city is considering an amendment to its zoning ordinance that would require earth berms to be built around any new railroad construction — including the proposed rail expansion near the intersection of Missouri Avenue and West Pontoon Road.

Wilson said that soil has a relatively high sound absorption rate and can help to reduce the resonance associated with sound barriers constructed from man-made materials.

Berm

Planning and Zoning Commission

While Port District Attorney Eric Robertson said last week that port commissioners estimated the cost to construct the proposed berm at $123,000, Peters said his engineers estimate the cost to be approximately $25,000 for five-foot-tall berms with four-foot-wide berms and plantings.

"The earthen berm can be built for approximately $10 per linear foot. This is cheaper than an industrial fence," Peters said.

He said that the bid documents for the $2 million project call for $25 million general liability insurance, a $25 million railroad protective insurance policy, and a $25 million policy for contractors protective public and private property damage liability.

And because there are two contracts being let (by IDOT) early next month, a total of about $150 million in coverage is being required for the $2 million project.

"For the amount of money the contractors are being asked to include in their bid for the project, we could build a brick wall around the entire 10-acre parcel," Peters said.

Peters said failure to protect surrounding properties with a berm will likely result in increased property values and thus reduced tax revenues for the city.

He alleged that the Norfolk and Southern railroad has failed to pay property taxes to the city or county on the 95-acre parcel since about 1988. That allegation could not immediately be confirmed or denied.

He also alleged that the railroad is using the port district to avoid a public hearing on a proposed new crossing on Missouri Avenue.

"The railroad is hiding in the tentacles of the port authority," The Tri-City Regional Port has avoided a public hearing on building a new crossing across Missouri Avenue," Peters said.

Peters said at a meeting last month that the port would hold a public hearing on the matter if city officials requested one.

Effort aims at lead poisoning

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

Children in East St. Louis, Collinsville and neighboring communities will have better protection from lead contamination due to the efforts of local health and legal officials.

East Side Health District, the St. Clair County State's Attorney Office and the Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation have joined forces to crack down on landlords who do not eliminate lead hazards in their property.

"In the past it was mostly citizens in the landlords to try and get them to clean it up," said Linda Zavone of Land of Lincoln Legal Assistance Foundation. "Now we're going to take steps to end it, bring some of them to court."

Children under six and pregnant women are being tested for lead contamination. In one year, over 10,000 local children were tested.

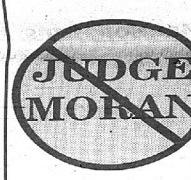

Zavone explained that the health district is now referring cases to the State's Attorney Office for prosecution with the worst cases of violations being handled first.

"We have tentatively agreed to procedures for referral of cases and we hope that it can establish a system which will be an example for the rest of the state," said Penni Livingston, assistant state's attorney for environmental crimes.

Lead poisoning is one of the most common environmental diseases of children, who are more susceptible than adults. Lead poisoning can cause a wide range of health problems for children.

Invest in the community

Granite City area voters have an opportunity to invest in the future of our community Nov. 8 when a Granite City School District bond issue question will appear on the ballot.

We agree with School Superintendent Steve Balen that the referendum question represents a lot more than authorizing the district to borrow money for a much-needed preservation and restoration of the 70-year-old high school building. One need only take a short tour of the inside of the high school to confirm that the renovation project is badly needed.

The question is really whether or not area residents are willing to invest in the future of the community, whether as in the Wilson Park swimming pool question two years ago, we as property owners are willing to reach into our own pockets to ensure that our children have a safe, wholesome environment.

Voters have an unusual opportunity to fund the badly-needed project. No tax increase will be necessary for the $12 million project because the district is now making final payments to retire a previous debt, set to expire in December. A "yes" vote Nov. 8 will authorize continuation of a tax for the district's bond and interest fund.

The district currently levies for that fund at a rate of about 34 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. If the district's assessed valuation continues to increase — and it has increased by $123,359,894, or 66 percent over the last 14 years — that rate will decrease proportionately over the 20-year life of the bonds.

When potential business and industry evaluate where they want to set up shop or when potential residents decide where they will raise a family, one of the first questions they ask is, "What does the community have to offer my employees?" or "What kind of amenities are there for my family?"

The Wilson Park swimming pool project ensures that Granite City continues to have one of the finest park systems in Southwestern Illinois — places where families can go to participate in good, wholesome activities. City leaders point to the park with pride when trying to lure commercial or industrial development or new homeowners.

Similarly, Granite City schools have a long tradition of providing quality education for our children. That is proven each year by the number of students cited for outstanding scholastic achievement, by those who go on to succeed in higher education and by those who prosper in business or professional life. Our schools are also selling point when trying to attract development, something which ultimately helps to ease the tax burden on all residents.

To ensure that the school district's strong reputation is preserved, the high school renovation project must be undertaken.

Although some might question why the district decided, when consolidating from two high schools to one 10 years ago, to keep the older high school building (then Granite City High School South) and sell the new one (then GCHS North), the fact remains that the district now has only the current building with which to work. And it is one steeped in tradition — one in which students have been educated since the early 1920s. Failure of the referendum can only mean that the building will continue to deteriorate.

If the arguments in favor of the referendum question are still not convincing, voters should ponder this:

What will happen to Granite City and its children if the referendum fails?

Crime bill: loss of freedom

TO THE EDITOR: Jerry Costello voted yes on the Crime Bill. His craftily written explanatory letter has led some to think he voted no.

By voting yes, he took the gun away from homes of law-abiding citizens and left the guns in the hands of the criminals. It is not necessary to pass volumes of laws that hamper law-abiding citizens, but are ignored by criminals.

Buildings are full of law books, but we still have crime. We have laws against drugs, but we have a drug problem. The Crime Bill was significantly political. Money was given to the districts so the party incumbent could tout the amount of money brought to the district and the total amount of the election of friendly incumbents.

A far more serious concern exists than the re-election or election of a Congressman candidate. The real concern is freedom. The Crime Bill is not about guns, but about loss of freedom. We have freedoms taken away little by little. We have been reduced to the point where our freedoms, they drift away so silently. We are regulated in our homes, our workplaces, our schools and recreation areas. We have lost our right to privacy, freedom of expression, freedom from over taxation, 3) be heard, and 4) true representation of all of us, not just representation of insiders and special interests.

It is time to take back America and let freedom ring again.

Crime bill: no cost to taxpayers

TO THE EDITOR: Mr. Michael Golec's letter to the editor incorrectly stated that the Crime Bill will "cost the taxpayers a lot of money."

There is no provision in the bill to increase taxes. Instead, the bill is financed through a Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund. The Trust Fund will be financed by savings expected from the elimination of more than 270,000 federal jobs as required by the Federal Workforce Restructuring Act (Public Law 103-236).

In addition, there are a number of safeguards in the bill to ensure that the Trust Fund does not add to the deficit in future years.

Ruling robs people of Illinois

TO THE EDITOR: The people of Illinois have been robbed.

During the past year more than 400,000 Illinois voters signed a petition for a referendum to place the referendum was for limiting the terms of office for Illinois politicians. The Eight-is-enough term limit campaign, organized by state treasurer Pat Quinn, was concluded on a local level by average citizens.

The Illinois Supreme Court could take no chances of the term limit referendum passing and voted not to allow it on the November ballot.

Bowing to a lawsuit filed by the powerful Chicago Bar Association, four Chicago area judges voted against the referendum. The other remaining justices, including Moses Harrison of Madison County, voted to allow the referendum to be on the November ballot.

Sixteen other states now have term limits for elected officials, including neighboring Missouri. Illinois is the first state not to allow term limits. Those who are to be placed before the voters.

Study continues at heritage site

(Second of two columns)

Exploration and research have been conducted for more than 70 years at the Cahokia Monks Site near Collinsville.

And plans call for archaeological excavation, testing and analysis to continue there for many more decades. What remains to be examined is "a vast prehistoric reservoir of buried information and insight" into prehistoric life in the American Bottomland area.

The 200-acre site will be visited by tens of thousands of Americans, including American Indians, during the annual Heritage America observance from 6:30 p.m. tomorrow, Sept. 24.

Madison County Transit will provide free shuttle-bus service throughout the site during the weekend. Highlights will include Indian-American crafts, dances and music.

The only prehistoric city north of Mexico, the Mississippi Indians "city of the sun" metropolis dates back to A.D. 900.

It was abandoned by 1500, apparently due to dwindling natural resources, less abundant food, increasing pollution and a changing climate.

Illini Indians moved to the area in the early 1600s, among them the Kaskaskia, Cahokia and Peoria.

In 1673, Marquette and Joliet traveled along the Mississippi River and became the first Europeans to pass the Cahokia Mounds site.

French settlers and missionaries arrived in the late 1600s and priests built a chapel on the Indian-built Monks Mound in the 1700s.

French trappers lived on mound at the Cahokia site and planted gardens on Monks Mound from 1809 to 1813.

Historians, artifact collectors, artists, surveyors and farmers made the site a popular tourist area as the century progressed, and R.R. Patrick began the first of a number of "diggs" and published a detailed account in 1890.

The Cahokia exhibit at a world's fair, the Columbian Exposition in Chicago, was prepared by William McAdams and his son, Clinton, in 1893.

Warren Moorehead dug and tested at several mounds and village areas in the 1920s, and the state of Illinois acquired the site in 1933, opened a first museum there in 1930. The original museum was expanded in the 1970s.

"Fascinating information was revealed accidentally during excavations in the early 1960s. Professionals worked desperately against time to preserve information about to be destroyed by Interstate 55/70 highway construction," an Illinois Historic Preservation Agency spokesman says.

"The highway plan was later rerouted but after substantial excavation Dr. Warren Wittry noted that many large oval-shaped pits seemed to be arranged in arcs of circles.

"He theorized that these posts set in these pits lined up with the sun at appropriate times in the year, serving as a calendar of the seasons. He named the calendar Woodhenge."

"Woodhenge" was selected as the site of public observation of the fall equinox sunrise one day late this year, at 6:30 a.m. Saturday.

"Further excavations uncovered these pits at periodic intervals, and there is evidence of five Woodhenge circles, some of them interlocking, built over a period of 20 years.

The first circle had 24 points, the second had 36, the third 48, the fourth 60 and the last to be built consisted of 12 posts in which there had been a 72-point calendar.

"Viewed from the center of the circle, posts marked the first days of winter, spring and summer, and the start of autumn and fall. Other posts marked special festival dates related to the corn-growing cycle."

The most spectacular sunrise occurs at the spring and fall equinoxes. The 20-foot-tall post marking these sunrises aligns with the front of Monks Mound, and it looks as though people as though the 100-foot-tall mound gives birth to the sun.

From the center of

Among those doing major studies at Cahokia Mounds have been Washington University, the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, the University of Illinois and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Their findings, including scientific efforts have been highly positive, but negative developments over the years included development of a residential subdivision, an outdoor theater and a large retail store.

In the late 1960s, another construction project — erection of the current 33,000-square-foot Cahokia Mounds Interpretive Center — led to still another discovery breakthrough.

The city showed much interest in advance planning, and as it matured there were also examples of what today could be known as "urban renewal."

Near a stockade wall in a low-lying area believed to have been unsuitable for houses, it was discovered that it had been a residential area with Indian houses varying in size, style and alignment in different centuries.

It also was determined that even Monks Mound was constructed on the site of an early village, which was "condemned" by an early form of the law of eminent domain.

As decreed by the chief thought to be the builder of the sun, houses were torn down to allow for a public use — creation of the huge mound for ceremonial and governmental activities.

Class size is an important factor in learning

instruction. The slightly below-average student.

At the risk of being repetitive, I'm reminded again of my fifth and sixth grade teacher and our teacher, Barbara Hart. The room contained about 25 desks, but the class numbered only about 16 or 17 students, a close-to-average size. We were never a part of Lafayette School, only "guests" because our own school had burned to the ground early in the year.

The formidable Miss Hart, one of the kindest souls I ever met, was the glue that held us together. She was a woman who feared neither man nor beast. She may have feared God, but I wouldn't bet on it. She was probably typical. About a third of us were above-average students; we were very dedicated to the profession of teaching.

For those teachers, I can only say that there are some teeth in that contract when it comes to lowering class sizes — not just lip service in the interest of expedience.

How about additional teaching staff, particularly if the district's school population continues in its current growth pattern?

Parents are appalled when I think of a teacher trying to deal with a class of 30 or upward students and not just for the teacher's sake. I can't imagine the frustration of trying to teach any such class with an iota of dedication to the profession, and most area schools have many of those.

Three victims when that happens are the kids, especially the slow-learners or those with low self-esteem or motivation. I'm not talking about education; I'm talking about reading, writing and arithmetic. Those who are really short-changed are those who simply need a little more of a teacher's time and individual attention by threatening and bribing the rest of us, but in largest part because of the class size.

The payoff? With Fred, zilch.

I have no idea what eventually happened to him. In today's parlance, he fell through the cracks, a dropout. In Billy's case, growing up with his high school class, served as a pilot in WWII, spent his working life at a decent job. In short, a productive life, thanks to Miss Hart.

7 more win home awards

Seven area homeowners have been honored as September recipients of Home Pride Awards.

The program, sponsored by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and the Granite City Press-Record Journal, was established in 1991 to honor those whose properties reflect pride in ownership.

The newest winners are: Allen and Barbara Lerner, 3221 Colgate Place, Granite City; Larry and Linda King, 2719 Benton Street, Granite City; Helen M. Holder, 3260 Carlson Avenue, Granite City; Richard and Melissa Gray, 2113 Grand Avenue, Granite City; Donald and Elizabeth McCaslin, 3953 Lake Street, Pontoon Beach; Helen and Charles King, 3115 Colgate Place; and Dr. and Mrs. Charles King Jr., 1307 27th Street, Granite City.

The Home Pride Award program places special emphasis on those properties that have become models for the rest of the neighborhood. Included are homeowners who have remodeled, planted floral gardens, cleaned up properties or otherwise demonstrated significant pride in the display of their homes.

Homes are selected solely on the basis of contributions by members of the community. Nominations are open to any residence, including homes, apartments and other dwellings, in the Granite City area, including Normandi, Chouteau, Venice and Granite City townships.

The seven winners awarded this month have made significant efforts to improve the appearance of their property, according to those who nominated them. Following are comments made about the winners:

Allan and Barbara Lerner — "The Lerners have the most beautiful grass in Granite City. Mrs. Lerner works to make their home and yard as attractive as possible."

Larry and Linda King — "Beautiful day or night. They maintain a beautiful yard. Added a deck in back and a gazebo on the yard. They decorate for every holiday. They are always working on the home inside and out."

Richard and Melissa Gray — "Allen and Linda King have completely renovated this home. They have extensive woodwork and turn-of-the-century furnishings. Both are inside and outside very well kept."

Helen M. Holder — "One of the first to purchase in Bellmore Village (area) more than 40 years ago, this home still looks new and looks new to the day it was purchased."

Donald and Elizabeth McCaslin — "Allen and Linda King and his wife are in their yard fixing and doing every day."

Herschel and Joann Jones — "Herschel and Joann Jones own their present home less than two years. Extensive renovations were made inside and out."

Dr. and Mrs. Charles King Jr. — "They updated a classic home while keeping its traditional feel."

Rural mail carrier Rich Bauer in his own "post office on wheels."

'Post office on wheels'Rural mail carriers stay busyBy Hiley Schulte
Staff writer

Anyone who has driven in the country has probably seen rural letter carriers at work, driving from mailbox to mailbox while delivering and picking up mail from trucks alongside the road.

Rural letter carriers have many differences from city-letter carriers. The "rurals" own their vehicles and drive the mail rather than walk it, saving them from the dog bites urban carriers often experience.

The rurals don't generally wear postal uniforms and they don't work fixed hours. Granite City has three rural postal deliveries and three people on rural carrier relief.

Rich Bauer drives rural to national and loves his rural postal job. A 12-year rural carrier, he said he hopes to continue with his job until retirement because "when the job is done, it's time to go home."

Bauer's route takes about nine hours each day to complete, Tuesday through Saturday. The rural routes are evaluated yearly, and the routes are set according to mail volume and length. Some carriers deliver five days a week, and others deliver six days per week.

Free rural delivery was enacted in 1963 and immediately improved the lives and standard of living for farmers and other rural dwellers nationwide.

"Country folks" benefited by being able to buy most other items inexpensively, conduct other business and communicate with distant friends and relatives via mail.

Rural letter carriers are still an important part of rural life, providing a postal retail service, including stamps, money orders, certified, insured and registered mail. They accept parcel post, express and priority mail packages for shipment and collect COD charges when requested upon delivery.

Like post office window clerks in the cities, carriers are often asked detailed questions about postal services, regulations and programs.

Rural carriers answer many questions every day, but Bauer noted that rural carriers rarely run into problems.

"We stay in our cars the whole time. During bad weather, the street department plows where we have to go, so we're lucky. Oh, the last couple of years we've been real lucky," he said.

Granite City Postmaster Charles Parkinson said rural postal workers are dedicated workers who work very hard to bring letters, packages, business correspondence, publications and retail services to much of rural America.

So maybe that's why rural postal deliverers are often called "post offices on wheels."

Alorton mayor takes case for the poor to PresidentBy Mike Viola
Staff writer

In the rural South, several small towns exist where residents still do not have running water, sewers or paved streets.

Earlier this month, Alorton Mayor Callie Mobley met with President Bill Clinton to appeal to the federal government to help these Americans who are living in poverty.

"We wanted to convey to President Clinton that we have to do something for the people that have fallen through the cracks," said Mobley.

Mobley is chairperson of the Black Women Mayor's Caucus which consists of about 70 black female mayors representing both large and small cities around the country.

Mobley has been mayor of Alorton for the past 13 years. She is presently serving her fifth year as chairwoman of the caucus.

Earlier this month the caucus held its Board of Directors meeting in New Orleans. Clinton was also in New Orleans attending the National Baptist Convention. During this meeting, Mobley explained to Clinton the urgency of helping towns where residents are existing well below the poverty line. She requested direct funding to cities and towns that are members of the National Conference of Black Mayors.

While Alorton has its share of financial problems, Mobley said she would like to directly ask Clinton for money for Alorton, noting that St. Clair County officials have been fair in its distribution of funds for local communities. Instead, Alorton, Mobley was told by Clinton, is one of the lowest in the state.

So many that when rural postal deliverers are often called "post offices on wheels."

"Something must be done and I feel like at this point if it is not done under the Clinton administration it will never happen," Mobley said.

Although she doesn't support Clinton on every issue, especially abortion, Mobley said Clinton has been very willing to listen and work with the black, female mayors of the country.

This is the second time Mobley has met with Clinton. She noted that at any time she can pick up the telephone and call high ranking members of the White House staff to air her views and concerns.

In the future, Mobley will be working on a White House task force composed of officials with the Housing and Urban Development Department concerning how to improve living conditions for the poor of the country.

Port District officers, manager are retained

The Tri-City Regional Port District will go into the next fiscal year with the same hierarchy as it has had in the last year.

At its August meeting, the board of commissioners for the Port District re-elected its 1994 officers for fiscal year 1995.

The officers are Kent Holsinger, chairman; Mel Wilmsmeyer, secretary; and Howard Silas, treasurer.

The board also appointed Bob Wydra as general manager.

In other action, the board promoted Velda Taylor to the position of assistant general manager, appointed Eric Robertson as the port's attorney, replacing his father Randall Robertson; and appointed James R. Rabit director of engineering and planning.

Labit has a vacancy created by the death of Jerry Lavelle earlier this year.

The Tri-City Regional Port District board consists of four members appointed by the governor and three other members, one each appointed by the mayors of Granite City, Madison and Venice.

Other members of the board are Dr. Charles King Jr., Delton Groothuis and Mike Thornton, all of Granite City and Madison Mayor John Bellcoff.

The Tri-City Regional Port is the location of the busiest terminals in the Port of St. Louis.

Just north of Lock and Dam 27 on the Chain of Rocks Canal near Granite City, the port is home to operations for industrial and agricultural businesses that ship millions of tons of products up and down the Mississippi River and to ports in Mexico and other nations in the western hemisphere, Europe, Africa and beyond.

Heritage program at Mounds

Heritage America, the largest Native American program in the St. Louis metropolitan area, will be held Friday through Sunday, Sept. 23 through 25, at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

Representatives from nearly 40 Native American nations will gather to make history come alive through traditional dances, music, crafts, games and contests.

From 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., on Saturday and Sunday, the Central Plaza area will be teeming with demonstrators performing by different culture groups and individuals. In the Southeast area, the Choctaw and Creek will demonstrate blowguns, bows and arrows, basketry, and Creek stickball. The Hopi and Navajo, from the Southwest, will demonstrate silverwork, pottery, and kachina carving, beadwork and cooking. Plains culture groups will show ribbonwork, beadwork, pottery, featherwork, shawl decorating and moccasin making.

There will be an on-activity area for children of all ages to make crafts for a small fee. An arena in the Plaza will feature Navajo and Choctaw dancing. Food and refreshment stands will feature traditional fry bread, buffalo burgers, hot dogs, Mexican foods and a variety of other treats.

Heritage America has become famous for the Native American dance performances, and dances will be presented in a new and larger dance circle in the Falcon picnic area. Traditional dance and special music begin at 6:30 p.m. Friday, followed at 8 p.m. by special performances of the Northern Shawl, Grass, and Creek Duck, Drum, Stomp and War dances.

The grand opening ceremony and procession of dancers starts at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Dance Circle. The ceremony will be followed by Gourd and Buffalo dances.

BECAUSE SPORTSMEN PAY OVER $3 MILLION EACH DAY FOR CONSERVATION

The "Un-endangered Species"®

WILD TURKEY

By the early 1900s, encroaching civilization and habitat loss had reduced the number of wild turkeys in the U.S. to under 100,000.

Today there are more than 4,500,000 turkeys in our forests—thanks to conservation programs financed primarily by hunters and anglers.

Many Americans don't realize the pioneer role hunters and fishermen have played—and continue to play—in the nation's organized conservation movement. Or the fact that these sportsmen have contributed more than $17 billion to date for wildlife restoration and conservation programs.

The wild turkey isn't the only species to benefit from the sportsman's dollars:

Virtually every species of native American wildlife—from songbirds and chipmunks to bald eagles and whooping cranes—benefits from conservation programs paid for by hunters and anglers.

To recognize the sportsman's efforts to save our wildlife and the environment, Congress established National Hunting and Fishing Day® in 1972, to be celebrated on the fourth Saturday of September each year. This year on Saturday, September 24, join America's hunters and anglers in supporting conservation.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Warriors make it two in a row in tourney

By Tony Panizzo
Staff writer

The Warrior soccer team took another step forward in the Hazelwood Central Invitational on Tuesday with a 3-0 victory over Alton Marquette at The Oval.

The Warriors were scheduled to face The Explorers on Wednesday night in the final match of the tourney. A win or a tie would have been enough for Granite City to advance to Friday's semifinals at Hazelwood Central High School.

THE WARRIORS OPENED the tournament Monday with an overwhelming 6-0 victory over Hazelwood East. Performance like that didn't live up to Tuesday against the Explorers.

"We were pretty lackadaisical," Granite City coach Gene Baker said. "We've got to play better."

Although the Warriors posted their second straight shutout, they held a 1-0 lead at halftime and didn't put away the Explorers until the opening minutes of the second half.

The victory, however, was highlighted by a career performance from Little.

Matt Little, the senior midfielder, scored three goals, including a bicycle goal in front of a wall of Marquette defenders midway through the first half.

The play occurred after the Explorers were called for an obstruction foul against Shane Petroski in the penalty area. The Warriors were awarded an indirect kick rather than a penalty kick, and a wall of players formed in front of the net.

Shane Petroski, who noted Little became the first GCHS player to score on such a play during a game, "It's kind of a special moment in high school sports."

"We've had some guys who were really good at it (Brent) Dippel was very good at it. Matt

Green each shot a 41.

Those were two of the area's finest, we played those two days," Chaney said. "It's not the end of the world when you lose to them, but we still could have done better. We're still trying to fine-tune our drives."

Last Thursday, the Warriors surprised two more of the area's top teams, as they slipped past Alton and Collinsville at Arlington.

GRANITE CITY AND Alton tied at 155, and Collinsville was third at 156. The Warriors won the tiebreaker when their No. 5 and 6 golfers, Fulkerston and Martin, were one stroke better than Alton's Nos. 5 and 6.

Green led the Warriors with a nice round of even-par 36, with very few mistakes. Susan Hamilton, Leah Rust and Khara Main all played well on the back line. Christy Scheller and Kelly Orsa set beautiful ball night for hitters. Denise McMillan and Jennifer Willis, Stephanie Brandt and Amy Tapp helped their own against the experienced Maroons.

Possibly the Maroons' best attribute was their serving, which was near 90 percent on the night. Dawn Karraker, Mack and Scheller all finished at 100 percent.

The Lady Warriors (3-9), who were playing their eighth match in a row, also got great performances from Denise McMillan and Jennifer Willis at the front line, with youngsters Stephanie Brandt and Amy Tapp holding their own against the experienced Maroons.

"We're not totally on track yet," Rodman said. "We're like a lot of teams early in the season. We haven't played a lot of games yet. We're looking forward to participating in tournaments this weekend, and that

JULIE BOHNESTIEL and

"WEST HAS THE tradition, and we really wanted to come out and compete with against them," Gagich said. "We made some young errors, and we're still learning how to handle the peaks and valleys of a match. Volleyball is a game of momentum, and when the momentum took over in the second game, they didn't let up."

Granite City got its third win of the year, 15-12, at Wood River. The Lady Warriors won the three games 9-15, 15-8, 15-7.

"Right now we're just drained mentally and physically," she said of the eight-game stretch. "(Wednesday) will be a nice day off."

Track championships decided

By Steve Birmingham
Correspondent

The Coca-Cola Classic Weekend at Tri-City Speedway brought new winners to the Granite City area and saw six others crowned with track titles.

Craig Dollansky of Elk Grove, Minn., raced to victory in the Interstate Racing Association's Midweek Sprint Car/Midget Shootout. Dollansky led from flag to flag, topping Terry Gray, Jim Mock, Mike Ward and 1994 Tri-City Champion Tommy Scott.

USAC COPENHAGEN-SKOAL National Midget points leader Tony Stewart rode the high groove to victory at the 10th Annual Bob Tattersall Memorial for MARA Midgets. Stewart defeated past Tattersall winners Steve Knepper and Andy Pfeifer. This marks the third time the Granite City half-mile has won its compainy, as other past winners include Jeff Gordon, Rich Vogler and Paul Johnson.

Tommy Clark's Racing Series Night of Champions saw three repeat champions, one first-time champion and one co-champion decide the race.

Pete Ryan and Terry James will share the crown in the Budweiser Pro Stock ranks. James led the points chase going into the night's action, but consistent heat and rough finishes by Ryan closed the gap. The co-championship is a first in Tri-City's 33-year history.

Tommy Scott won his second consecutive SKOAL Bandit Racer Sprint Car title on the strength of 11 feature and nine heat race wins.

MARC MCCLINTOCK defended his 1993 AARA Modified title by capturing the 1994 Championship. McClintock won Saturday's main event — his eighth of the year.

Bobby Bittle won his second AARA Super Sportsman Championship at Tri-City, ringing up his fifth feature win. Staying true to his tradition, he celebrated his 18th birthday Saturday, last season's Street Stock Rookie-of-the-Year, Wayne Downing, followed up with a 1994 Season Champion. Downing was eight heats and seven main events en route to the title.

USAC Midget Champion Bob Wente Sr. was presented the "Legends of Tri-City Award" for his contributions and accomplishments in USAC Midget competition at Tri-City and across the nation. Making the presentation was long-time friend John Cooper.

Elderly should take precautions against flu, pneumonia

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

The bugs of summer, mosquitoes and bees, are about to be replaced by the bugs of autumn and winter — flu and pneumonia.

And the time has never been better for older Americans to take precautions against the threat of pneumonia and flu. The cost of pneumonia vaccinations and flu shots are covered by Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance) for people ages 65 and older.

The National Institute on Aging (NIA), American Lung Association, and the Department of Veterans Affairs encourage elderly people to be vaccinated against pneumonia this fall. Older people are twice as likely as younger ones to get pneumonia, but only 20 percent take the pneumonia vaccination, according to the NIA.

The Public Health Service recommends an annual flu shot for people ages 65 and older, even if they are generally healthy. Shots are usually given in fall or winter.

Medicare beneficiaries do not need a doctor's prescription or supervision to have the vaccinations covered by Medicare. Medicare pays 100 percent of the approved amount for either shot. There is no deductible or co-payment. If actual costs exceed the approved amount, the patient is responsible for the difference.

Medicare will cover the shots if the vaccine is obtained at a doctor's office or by a hospital, nursing home, home health agency, rural health clinic, Federally qualified health center, outpatient physical therapy provider, a comprehensive outpatient rehabilitation facility or health maintenance organization (HMO).

However, when Medicare beneficiaries get vaccinations at a community health clinic that normally provides the shots free to the public, Medicare will not pay.

Q. My father just passed away. He was living with me and I paid all of his funeral expenses. Am I entitled to the Social Security lump sum death payment?

A. Probably not. The lump sum death payment of $255 is made only to a surviving spouse or to a child who is eligible for survivor's benefits on the deceased worker's Social Security record.

Q. I recent had surgery and will be out of work for six to eight months. Am I eligible for disability benefits?

A. Sorry, no. Social Security does not pay short-term disability benefits. To qualify, your disability must be expected to last for at least 12 months or end in your death.

Q. I'm 60 years old and my husband recently passed away. Am I eligible for any Social Security benefits?

A. If your husband died "fully insured" for Social Security survivor's benefits, you may be eligible for reduced widow's benefits at age 60 if he worked at least 10 years and did not receive covered work. You can benefit if he was fully insured.

Q. I'm 60 and receiving widow's benefits. I'm planning on remarrying in December. Will Social Security stop my widow's benefits when I get remarried?

A. Since your remarriage will happen after you turn 60, your benefits will continue. Also, you should check to see if you can get a higher benefit on your new husband's record. Call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 and ask about your options.
